

The teacher generates statements for students to agree or disagree with. These can go with a text, a speech, a video... Kids agree or disagree before and again after reading. Evidence comes from text.